Connect & rebound: meet the global demand at Cinte Techtextil China 2022

Internal and external demand continuously drive China's technical textile and nonwoven market

Increased demand for facemasks and medical textiles accelerated the growth in global technical textile and nonwoven exports. China remains the largest supplier, comprising more than 1/3 of the global figure.

By 2030, the nonwovens market is predicted to be 13m tonnes due to the medical and recovering construction, manufacturing and agricultural sectors. Global demand will also be driven by heightened health and sanitary regulations and new personal hygiene habits.

China maintains high demand for overseas textile machinery, raw materials and 'Texpertise' to support its exports. The fair continues to be the country's ideal trade platform for technical textiles and nonwovens.

Increasing domestic consumption of functional apparel, sports & personal protection items will also drive future expansion. Post-pandemic growth in manufacturing and construction will boost demand for filtering, greenhouse covering and high-density fabrics.

Exhibitor comments

"The fair can help us explore new business opportunities especially when the whole textile sector has been greatly affected by the pandemic. By presenting a wide range of products and solutions that cover different application areas along the supply chain, we are interested in meeting existing and new customers here at the fair. Thanks to the huge market size in China, a stable industry growth can be forecast with a lot of opportunities on offer."

Mr Eddie Wan, General Manager, Fixatti (China) Polymer Specialties Co. Ltd – a Bostik Company, France

"Cinte Techtextil China is the ideal trade fair for nonwoven fabric, that's why most of my customers will participate. It is a great chance for us to have face-to-face interactions with new and old customers so as to learn more about their needs and business development. We've got excellent results this year as we are a parts manufacturer, so many clients will use our products. I think the fair can indeed benefit our business development whether it is a pre-pandemic or post-pandemic period. Thus, I will participate in every edition in the future."

Visitor comments

"Cinte Techtextil China, as an international professional exhibition platform, brings together cutting-edge technologies and products in the industry, allowing us to quickly learn about innovative technology trends in the industry. I was particularly impressed by the biodegradable products seen in the Innovation Showcase. I am mainly sourcing mask-related products and mops, and I have found companies that I'm interested in and will ask them to send samples later on. The show enables us to quickly access many quality exhibitors at once, reach our sourcing targets, facilitate our sourcing needs and keep up with the industry's development."

Ms Claire Zhang, Senior Scientist, Personal Health, Philips Research China, Philips (China) Investment Co Ltd, China

"As a professional trade fair for technical textile and nonwoven products, Cinte Techtextil China is not only a platform to gather qualified industry players, but also the best place to showcase new products and innovations. The products are specific and high quality which highly match with my scouring needs and definitely enhances the sourcing efficiency for buyers. We can also check out the new trends for advanced technologies as well as the market development thoroughly, which attracts my company to visit the fair continuously. We have already connected with several companies and will have further discussions."

Mr Lin Bin, Technical Director, Zhejiang Xinna Medical Device Technology Co Ltd, China
